

Solar Opportunities for Owners and Renters through Illinois Solar for All

Are you a renter? Do you own a home that isn't a good fit for solar panels?

Illinois Solar for All (ILSFA), an income-qualified State program that incentivizes solar development, is supporting community solar projects across Illinois. Subscribing to a community solar project allows you to save money on electricity costs and support clean energy production without having to install solar panels at your home.

Here's how it works:

1. Solar panels are installed somewhere in your utility territory.

2. If you pay an electricity bill, you can subscribe to this community solar project.

3. You will receive credits on your electricity bill for your portion of the project.

The community solar projects listed to the right are currently recruiting new subscribers. Participants must be income-eligible (see attached chart to determine your eligibility), receive an electricity bill, and live in the utility territory where the project is installed (Ameren or ComEd). Use the contact information included to reach out to the Approved Vendor and learn more about participation availability.
